Q NOTES

Guidelines: Q Notes are called so because you can only write questions in the left column. These questions serve as cues to remind you what you should know. Use the template in this way: fold the paper along the division line between the two columns so you can only see your questions in the Q column. Then check how well you can answer them by quizzing yourself.

Turn the headings, subheadings, and topic sentences into questions.	Write the answers to your questions from the left. Organize your ideas in whatever way is convenient for you: using sentences, numbers, bullets, or dashes.